THE OAKLAND FILM OFFICE INTRODUCES the Oakland Film Center

Established in 2004, the Oakland Film Center houses 29 film production-related businesses under one roof—conveniently located at the foot of the Bay Bridge.

Sharing this 100,000-square-foot space creates a unique synergy within an already tight-knit Bay Area film production community—between art directors, prop makers, photographers and companies that provide film production gear.

TIM RANAHA RANAHA PRODUCTION SERVICES INC.

Ranahan provides support equipment including communications gear and trucks that double as camera darkrooms, art departments and production facilities.

"The best perk is that the Oakland Film Center provides a one-stop shop," says owner Tim Ranahan. "Having everything in one place makes it easy, especially for an out-of-town crew."
